403(b) PLAN CONTRIBUTION TYPES

All contributions to the 403(b) plan must be from qualifying ministry earned income and are subject to legal limits.

EMPLOYEE ELECTIVE CONTRIBUTIONS

Elective contributions are made through a written agreement between the employee and employer.

- PRE-TAX ELECTIVE DEFERRAL
The contribution and earnings are tax-deferred for federal income tax purposes until distribution. There are restrictions on when distributions may be taken. These contributions must be made by the employer.
- ROTH AFTER-TAX DEFERRALS
Roth contributions are taxed before going into the Plan. Qualified distributions are tax-free and penalty-free. There are restrictions on when distributions may be taken. Qualified distributions from a 403(b) plan are different than those for a Roth IRA. These contributions must be made by the employer.
- TRADITIONAL AFTER-TAX CONTRIBUTIONS
These contributions are taxed before going into the Plan. Earnings grow tax-free until distributed. A portion of every distribution is a tax-free return of contributions and a taxable return on earnings. Distributions can be made at any time, but taxes will apply and tax penalties may apply if you are under age 59½. These contributions may be made by the employer or employee; employer verification is required for employee contributions.

EMPLOYER NON-ELECTIVE CONTRIBUTIONS

This is a benefit in addition to salary that is paid to the employee's 403(b) retirement account. No action is needed by the employee to receive the benefit unless the employer is matching all or a portion of the employee deferrals. The contributions and earnings are tax-deferred for federal income tax purposes until distributed. These contributions must be made by the employer.
